

GNU/Linux on the mobile phone - OpenMoko

OpenMoko is the GNU/Linux operating system running on the first free mobile phone, Neo1973. Hear about OpenMoko and the thoughts behind it. It will also be possible to see a Neo1973 live.

Ole Tange has been involved in the OpenMoko project since November 2006. He sees a phone running only Free Software as the most disrupting thing that has happened since the introduction of GNU/Linux. He will present the possibilities a free phone gives.

Free your phone!

See OpenMoko here: